

GEORGIANS

Will Honor the Memory of Patrick Walsh, Editor and Statesman.

Represented the Old North State in the United States Senate.

His Statue Will Stand in Heart of Augusta's New Civic Center.

WAS NATIVE OF THE GREEN ISLE

One of the few non-military heroes of the South will be honored within a short time by the city of Augusta, Ga. Patrick Walsh, who served the South as a private citizen, and supporting his father, mother and sisters and older brothers' families while the latter will have a monument raised to his memory by the citizens of Augusta. Work has already been begun to place the monument in Barrett Plaza, in the heart of the new civic center in that city. The monument is a heroic size bronze statue, of which George T. Brewster is the sculptor. For its conception, its execution in detail, and its likeness to the man it commemorates it has been highly praised by critical friends of Mr. Walsh.

Patrick Walsh, once United States Senator, Mayor of Augusta, newspaper proprietor and publisher, Irish patriot and tariff reformer, is considered by Southerners one of the most powerful factors in the work of the new South. As a man of peace, as a mediator, he spent his whole life in mitigating the burdens of the South after the war, and securing for it justice from the North. With Henry W. Grady, who sounded the keynote of the new South, he worked untiringly as a friend and compatriot to revivify the exhausted South and to renew the broken bonds between that section and the rest of the country. During his life (he was fifty-nine years old at the time of his death in 1899) Patrick Walsh was the friend and co-worker of every Democratic leader since the war. Alexander Stevens was his close personal friend, as was Samuel J. Tilden. He toured the South with Hill in 1892 when the latter was an aspirant for the Presidential nomination. He was the first man to advocate persistently the nomination of Grover Cleveland for the Presidency when the latter was Governor of New York, and in 1896 he worked earnestly for the nomination and election of William Jennings Bryan, who was his intimate friend.

Born in Ireland in 1840, Patrick Walsh came to Charleston, S. C., with his parents in September, 1852. He began life as a printer's devil. Whatever schooling he got was gained by his own endeavors. Before the war he attended Georgetown College, paying his way with money saved while learning the printer's trade. When war broke out he returned to Charleston and with Capt. Simonds organized a company in which he was elected First Lieutenant. They were stationed at Castle Pinckney, but when his two brothers entered the Confederate army he had to resign to aid his parents, his sisters and his brothers' families. To do this he worked as a printer on the Charleston News and Courier. After the war he moved to Augusta, Ga., as a journeyman printer on the Augusta Constitutionalist. It was not long before he became a reporter and shortly after city editor of the paper.

In 1866 he became editor of the Chronicle, which he subsequently owned jointly with Gregg Wright, then a well known Southern publicist. Mr. Walsh was also associated with Father Ryan, the poet priest, in the publication of the Banner of the South. It was in Augusta that he married Ann Isabelle McDonald, a belle of the old South, who survives him. She was a true helpmate in all his struggles and aspirations, and is loved and honored today in the city and State that were the scene of his labors. When the Associated Press organized its business in the South, Walsh was made General Manager for the South, and became a very close friend of William Henry Smith, for many years President of the association. He became General Manager and Treasurer of the Southern Associated Press when that organization formed an alliance with the Western Associated Press and the United Press and subdivided the field into new gathering. This alliance lasted but a short while, and when the split came Walsh and a coterie of Southern newspaper owners who were a power in the South allied themselves with the United Press, comprising at that time most of the big New York and New England papers. He often said he was willing to sow and let others reap. In 1891 he met with financial reverses in Wall street, but recouped his fortunes somewhat in Augusta real estate, and shunned Wall street forever afterward.

In 1894, on the death of Senator Colquitt, he was appointed United States Senator to fill the unexpired term by Gov. Northen, though Walsh earnestly advocated the appointment of another. He is the only Catholic who ever held that office in Georgia. Patrick Walsh was at all times the champion of the industrial South and carried on the work which Henry W. Grady so brilliantly began when his career was cut short by death. The schools, the great cotton mills and the winter tourist hotels of Augusta are among the most prominent monuments of his usefulness in the reawakening of the South after its long struggle.

HELPS SOUTH.

Panama Canal Creating a Decided Industrial Change.

That the Panama canal is creating a decided change in the industrial problems of the United States and Canada is already an established fact; that it will exert a powerful influence on the development of the South is freely admitted. There is a quickening of interest in every Southern port from Tampa on the west coast of Florida to Brownsville in the most southern part of Texas. An intense rivalry has sprung up between Southern cities that enjoy deep water harbors. Other cities not so well favored by nature are doing their utmost in preparation for the advantage that the Panama canal may possibly give to them. The business interests of Jacksonville, Fla., in conjunction with the Board of Trade, were responsible for the calling of a special session of the Florida Legislature, at which special session the only business transacted was the passage of a bill which allows the city of Jacksonville to own its docks and to levy taxes for the purchase of land on which to erect the docks, the building and maintenance of same and other necessary river improvements. For a time it looked as though the good citizens of Jacksonville had labored in vain, but in the last hours of the last Congress the rivers and harbors bill was passed, which seems to assure for Jacksonville the realization of its commercial dreams. Much activity is also manifested in such ports as Pensacola, Fla.; St. Andrews Bay, Fla.; New Orleans and Houston. All of these cities are sparring for commercial precedence through the advantage which comes from the meeting of rail and water transportation. In the sixteen Southern States 4,300 commercial organizations, representing a membership of over 3,000,000 live business men, are working for the industrial development of Southern cities and communities. It is estimated that capital is going into the far South at the present time at the rate of over $4,000,000 per week.

THREATENING.

Division 1, A. O. H., Going After Its Careless Members.

With President Tarry in the chair Division 1, A. O. H., at the meeting Tuesday night decided to go after those members whose delinquencies retard the progress of the oldest division in the city. Secretary Cusick will notify all members to be present at the meeting on April 15, when reports will be made and decided action taken to revive interest among the members in the work of the Ancient Order. One proposition for membership was received and another candidate elected. President Tarry announced the death of James Doran and an order was drawn for the payment of his death benefit. Action on motion to meet but once a month during the summer was deferred for two weeks in order that a full expression may be had from the members. Division 1 has been under a heavy expense for sick and death benefits during the past six months, and in order to bring the treasury up to its normal standing Messrs. William A. Higgins, Walter Cusick and Joseph Parrell were appointed a committee to recommend ways and means for that purpose.

AWARDED PIANO.

The eucure and lotto given by the ladies of St. Louis Bertrand's church last Friday afternoon and evening was an unqualified success, a large attendance being present, and Very Rev. Father McGovern, the pastor, and the ladies desire to return thanks to those who assisted in any way. The handsome upright piano, which was held over from the recent bazar, was awarded to Mrs. S. J. McElliot, of 722 West Oak street.

ESCAPE DAMAGE.

All the Catholic churches in the city of Omaha escaped undamaged by the storm of Easter Sunday. Only one Catholic institution, the Academy of the Sacred Heart, suffered serious loss. Two parishes, however, the Sacred Heart and St. Cecilia's, suffered heavily, many Catholic families having been rendered homeless.

HAIL HIS EXIT.

We note with pleasure that Dr. E. L. Scharf, of Washington, D. C., to whom we have had occasion to refer more than once in these columns, has fallen heir to a title and a fortune over in Europe, and that he is going to the Austrian Tyrol to become a nobleman. We hope the news is true; and furthermore, we trust that the so-called Scharf News Bureau will go with him. Perhaps Dr. Scharf meant well; we doubt it. But he could create more trouble to the square yard by his mixing of religion with his politics than any man of whom we ever knew. Scharf posed as representing the interests of the church. In reality he represented only Scharf.—Omaha True Voice.

DEMOCRATS

Again Select Frank McGrath to Lead Them to Victory in November.

Herald Forgets Vote of Thanks For Selection of Our Present Chief Executive.

Dr. Meehling, Popular Local Athletic Leader, Gets in Race For Coroner.

POST KNOCKS PROGRESSIVES

At the meeting of the Democratic City and County Committee on Monday afternoon Frank McGrath, president, Chairman, was again selected to pave the way for a continuation of the splendid Democratic successes of the past years, and in this selection the committee made no mistake, his proven ability making him the right man for the place, and if the selection had been made by a primary there wouldn't have been a dissenting vote against his leadership. Cool headed, resourceful, easy to ap-

As was predicted in these columns the week after our last election the Progressives were made a misfit party of sorehead Republicans, Roosevelt shouters and religious bigots, and our further prediction was that many of them would be found trying to sneak back in the G. O. P., which is being done here daily.

The Post also aptly stated this week that municipal improvement could only be found in selecting a strong ticket at the Democratic primary, and judging from the caliber of the men announcing daily this can easily be done. One of such announcements is that of Dr. Harry E. Meehling for Coroner, who has a following in this city of young men of all parties second to none. Dr. Meehling's service as physical director at the Y. M. C. A. and his long career in the furtherance of amateur athletics have won him a host of boosters, who are always ready to fall behind his banner.

In the Legislative races quite a field is expected and good standard-bearers that will be a credit to Louisville will be chosen in the primary. In the Fifty-fifth district George B. (Cack) Barrett is still in the field by himself, while Henry E. Owen's friends are persuading him to enter the race against the present incumbent, Adam Spahn, in the Forty-sixth district, and are already busy forming a working organization in his interest. In the Forty-seventh district popular Billy Kuh has no opposition and his splendid record is much in his favor. No announcements have been made in the Forty-seventh thus far or the Fifty-fifth, while Will Perry and Will Duffy are campaigning in the Forty-ninth and Fifty-first districts.

DEMOCRACY'S SUCCESSFUL LEADER.

FRANK M'GRATH, CHAIRMAN CITY AND COUNTY COMMITTEE.

proach, and above all a man of the people, Mr. McGrath possesses every characteristic necessary for successful political leadership, and the local Democracy is to be congratulated in its choice. After the election a banquet was served in the Italian room of the Tyler Hotel, at which talks were made by Col. John Whallen, County Attorney Scott Bullitt, John J. Barry, Frank Dugan, E. T. Schmitt, Judge Herman Gocke, W. P. McDonogh, Charles Foster, Jack Shea, Lloyd Gates, Joseph Overberg, James Fahey, Charles Barker and Theodore McCrory.

The Louisville Herald this past week attempted to arouse the public by stating that the McGrath-Whallen regime wanted to select Buschmeyer for Mayor and that he is not the people's choice, but forgot to add that the above regime also selected Mayor Head, who, in the opinion of men of all political beliefs, has made the best Mayor Louisville ever had, and if the Herald is as public spirited as it claims to be it should lose no time in securing a vote of thanks from our commercial bodies and the public in general for Messrs. McGrath and Whallen for their wise selection. The Kentucky Irish American has seldom found anything in the Evening Post's political opinions worth an endorsement, but the following from Editor Knott certainly sums up the popular view of the local Progressive party: "All that the public knows about this organization is that it is bigoted and intolerant with ostracism organized into a system. There is no possibility of utilizing the so-called Progressive party, because it has gone up in smoke. The vote of last fall was primarily a Roosevelt vote. It was made up largely of the workmen's vote and the colored men's vote, and both the workmen and the colored men have abandoned the so-called Progressive party. A straight Progressive ticket, made up in accordance with the spirit that has controlled the so-called Progressive Club, will not poll 3,000 votes in the city of Louisville."

The situation in Louisville is no different from that of Chicago and St. Louis, where in the elections of this past week the Progressives made a miserable showing, running behind the Socialist party, and in the latter city only polled 4,611 votes out of a total vote cast of nearly 129,000.

RETREAT.

Brings Knights of Columbus and Many Men to Cathedral.

The retreat instituted by the Knights of Columbus and conducted by Rev. Father Benedict Hanley, C. P., which has been in progress both morning and evening at the Cathedral since Wednesday, has been largely attended and the results are most gratifying. The Knights and those who made the retreat with them will receive holy communion at the Cathedral tomorrow morning at a special mass at 7:45 o'clock. Father Hanley has delivered a series of able and instructive discourses, which will have a lasting effect. The closing exercises will be held Sunday night, when Father Benedict will preach the last sermon and bestow the blessing.

PROMOTED.

Col. A. H. Egan, for the past ten years Division Superintendent of the Illinois Central railroad and a widely known and respected resident of this city, was last week promoted to be General Superintendent of that system, with headquarters in Memphis. Col. Egan is one of the most popular railroad officials in the country, and it is with regret that the railroad men part with him, though they rejoice over his promotion and hope that success will follow him and that he will go still higher.

HONOR FOR TARRY.

The Travelers' Protection Association held their annual meeting Saturday night at the Tyler Hotel and elected Thomas W. Tarry, the well known cigar manufacturer, a delegate to the national convention to be held at Richmond next June. Plans for the State convention to be held here during the month of May were also discussed. This meeting will bring several hundred traveling men to Louisville and the local organization will do everything possible to make it a success.

BIG HIT

Will Be Made by Trinity Y. M. I. Musical Club at Macaulay's Theater.

Everything Ready For Presentation of "Miss Dolly Dollars."

Most Stupendous Production Yet Undertaken by Local Talent.

CHORUS DRILLED TO PERFECTION

Never in the history of Trinity Council, Y. M. I., has there been anything so stupendous and difficult as the production of the popular comic opera, which will be seen at Macaulay's Theater on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights of next week. "Miss Dolly Dollars" was first presented to the public by Lula Glaser at the Knickerbocker Theater in New York and later by Blancha Ring at the New York Theater, where a great hit was scored. Miss Glaser also appeared in the title role in the opera in Louisville in 1906 with crowning success.

Trinity Council has been very fortunate in securing the services of some of Louisville's best talent, who have been interested in comic opera and musical comedy for the past six or seven years. The cast of characters that will be seen in this production is as follows:

Dorothy Gay, an American heiress known as "Dolly Dollars"—Mrs. Leo A. Schmitt.
Lord Burlingham, in favor of an Anglo-American alliance—J. A. Heilmann.
Finney Doolittle, an educated fool—P. Wellington Hager.
Samuel Gay, a condensed soup magnate—John Hodapp.
Mrs. Gay, his better 50 per cent.—Miss Renetta Blas.
Guy Gay, who pays a fellow to study for him at Oxford—John Hennessy.
Bertha Billings, Dorothy's maid, with a fondness for romance—Miss Grace Kinn.
Celeste—Miss Anna Burns.
Lieut. Von Richter, of the German army—Joseph Wettie.
Miggs, Lord Burlingham's valet—Louis Hoffmann.

Members of the Friendly Rivals' Club, consisting of one lord from each nation with native country brogue, will furnish much merriment and keep the audience in continual laughter. They include Hon. Percy Fitzbiddle, Albert Daly; Marguerite de Baccarat, Henry Dries; Baron Von Rheinheister, Leo Krebs; Count Runoffsky, Edward Krebs; Count Chianti, Michael Filburn; Duke de Bolero, Louis Schranz; Prince Umskyvitch, James Perry; Capt. Sheridan Barry, Coleman Ridge; Margery, an Eton girl, Miss Catherine Ecker; First Eton boy, Michael Filburn; Second Eton boy, Edward Krebs.

The large chorus, which has been rehearsed by Prof. Leo A. Schmitt and Prof. P. Wellington Hager, to perfection, will surpass any chorus ever seen on a Louisville stage composed of our young maidens and men, who are Misses Ella Corbett, Catherine Ecker, Mary Sheehan, Margaret Sheehan, Margaret Winter, Elsie Burns, Ida May Piles, Marie Speckert, Rosalie Speckert, Olive Silberg, Mary Recktenwald, Josephine Lyons, Viola Sexton, Corrine Jansen, Anna Burns, Grace Kinn, Mrs. Ernest Otte, and Messrs. James Perry, Louis Schranz, Leo Krebs, Michael Filburn, Henry Dries, Albert Daly, Coleman Ridge, Edward Krebs, Paul Dowling, Walter Pilsen, Ernest Otte, Louis Hoffman, Dan Tivnan, Edward Maloney, William Kirocher, Louis Eberle and Charles Galligan.

The scene of the play is laid in a villa on the Thames at Henley, England, concluding in a cafe in a Paris hotel. The costuming is modern throughout and the scenery and electrical effects are artistic and beautiful.

Dolly Dollars, the daughter of a wealthy but illiterate Chicago canned soup magnate who has rented a villa at Henley for the season, is pursued by a flock of bankrupt noblemen. Finney Doolittle, an eccentric bookworm secretary, given to quotations from the classics, is mistaken by Mr. and Mrs. Gay for his master, Lord Burlingham, and is introduced to Dolly as a desirable suitor for her hand. She, however, refuses to marry for a title only, so the real Lord Burlingham (who is smitten by her charms) instructs Doolittle to keep up the deception, and causes himself to be employed as Dolly's chauffeur.

The second act finds all the characters in Paris, where matters are further complicated by Dolly falling in love with the supposed chauffeur. Eventually Doolittle, being almost compelled by her title-hunting parents to ask her hand in marriage, reveals his identity, and Dolly, in her most supercilious manner, finally confesses her love and all ends happily.

DANGER POINT PASSED.

Friends of Col. Joe P. McGinn were somewhat alarmed the first of the week when they learned that he had been confined to his home at Center and Chestnut streets suffering from cold and malaria and threatened with pneumonia. Last Sunday week he complained of feeling unwell and for ten days was unable to leave his room. His condition changed for the better Wednesday, when the danger point was passed, and he was able to be up again. The attending physician now says Mr. McGinn's recovery will be rapid and that he can soon again take charge of the Pearl laundry.

PRINCELY.

Donation For Loyola University From Southern Woman.

As a crowning memorial for the immense amount of work done by the Very Rev. Albert Biever during his long administration as President of Loyola University in New Orleans, Miss Kate McDermott has generously donated $100,000 for the erection of a magnificent new church in memory of her beloved brother, the late Thomas McDermott. Miss McDermott made known her splendid gift when she transferred to Messrs. Hugh McCloskey and William P. Burke, as trustees, the sum of $110,000 with which to erect the church. Miss McDermott's gift will enable the Jesuit fathers to complete the handsome group of buildings at present contemplated for the university. Messrs. Burke and McCloskey will have absolute jurisdiction over the fund, and the construction of the church will proceed at once, according to the plans of the Jesuit fathers. Miss McDermott, in making the gift, expressed the wish that it would be known as a memorial to her brother Thomas, who died about a year ago. Mr. McDermott had been one of New Orleans' most prominent and successful sugar merchants. The McDermott family came to New Orleans from Ireland when the members were quite young.

PROMPTLY

Hibernian Ladies' Auxiliary Answers Appeal For Help.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Ancient Order of Hibernians made a prompt and generous response Wednesday night to the appeal of their national officers for money with which to relieve the distress prevailing in the flood-stricken districts of the country. The meeting was well attended, and when the appeal was read a motion was adopted without a dissenting voice making a substantial donation to the fund the order is raising throughout the country. Four new members were obligated, and at the next meeting it is expected to receive an additional number of applications. The Visiting Committee reported that those on the sick list were improving, following which benefit orders were drawn for four members. When the regular order had been concluded the hall was arranged for a card party that proved most exciting and enjoyable. There were many handsome prizes, the first being awarded to Miss Fanny Kennedy. Arrangements will be next made for another initiation, and soon after the annual summer celebration will engage the attention of the members. This auxiliary is one of the most energetic and prosperous in this section of the country, and the officers and members are determined to make this a record year.

MAYOR BURKE RESIGNS.

After accomplishing a noble work in being largely instrumental in saving his city from being torn to pieces by a flood, James E. Burke Thursday morning tendered his resignation as Mayor of Jeffersonville. "To take a better job," was the answer he made when asked why he had called a special meeting for the purpose of resigning. The big Mayor, tired and haggard, but still ready to fight the water, held in his hand a telegram from the Hon. William Elijah Cox, Representative in Congress from the Third Indiana Congressional district. This was to the effect that Mayor Burke had been decided upon as Postmaster at Jeffersonville, where there is a vacancy on account of Albert L. Anderson having been found short in his finances. Anderson is now doing two years in the Federal prison at Leavenworth, Kas.

CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY.

Cardinals Gibbons, Farley and O'Connell and a number of Archbishops and Bishops on Wednesday attended the meeting of Trustees of the Catholic University, which authorized construction of several additional buildings at the university in Washington. The Archbishops met Thursday and heard reports of the Catholic Colonization Society.

EUCURE AND LOTTO.

The Ladies' Sewing Society of St. Mary and Elizabeth Hospital will give a eucure and lotto on the afternoon and evenings of April 16 and 17 and have secured many valuable prizes.

AGAIN IN FIELD.

The well known coal dealers, Joseph Dougherty and Everett Lanning, who last year merged with the Southern Coal and Coke Company, have withdrawn their interest from that corporation and will again conduct a wholesale and retail coal business from their former yards at Fifteenth and Magnolia. Dougherty & Lanning have had a long experience and their fair dealing with the general public assures them a large coal trade.

MAGNIFICENT

Religious Fetes Mark Sixteenth Centenary of Edict of Milan.

Church Given Liberty to Emerge From Darkness of the Catacombs.

A Jubilee Which Will Extend Throughout the Entire World.

OPENED LAST SUNDAY IN ROME

Last Sunday there opened in the Eternal City of Rome the first of a series of magnificent religious fetes, which our Holy Father Pope Pius X. has proclaimed in commemoration of the sixteenth hundredth anniversary of the promulgation of the famous Edict of Constantine, whereby the church was granted liberty to emerge from the darkness of the catacombs, whence she had unceasingly sent forth her missionaries to spread the light of truth and win the martyr's crown, upon this glorious day, when the dark clouds were dispersed and radiant and beautiful she took the place which was to be hers forevermore as the great, central living fact of history and the everlasting guide of the human race.

This celebration, the Morning Star says, commemorates that day when the pagan ruler Constantine came to the very gates of Rome, after crushing the army of his ruler Maxentius; he entered the city bearing not the standard which for ages had been the herald of his people, but a new banner which bore upon it the Cross of Christ, and the inscription, "In this sign shalt thou conquer." Why this symbol of victory? Why this exaltation of the cross, which hitherto had been the sign of shame and ignominy, and whose display meant the persecution and death of the bearer. We all know the beautiful story of Constantine, and how, on the eve of battle, this sign of the cross appeared to him radiant in the heavens with the words blazoned in letters of light, "In This Sign conquer." The glorious victory followed in the battle of the Mivian Bridge, upon its adoption as his battle flag by the noble Constantine. Therefore did this great Emperor in thanksgiving to the God of the Christians, enter the city of the Caesars with this sign as his banner. Therefore did he issue that proclamation which guaranteed to the struggling Church of Christ freedom to grow and prosper.

From the darkness and gloom of the catacombs the church emerged and began at once to proclaim to the furthest end of the then known earth the truth of the living God. The influence of Christianity upon the pagan mind became more and more marked. Especially did it show forth in the life of the Emperor, who reared his children in the Catholic faith, invited the Bishops of the church to his table and conferences, promoted the erection of the great Basilica of St. Peter, recognized and revered the authority of the Supreme Pontiff, and in the end died glorifying the name of Jesus Christ. The church failed not in her glorious mission. She became the leader and civilizer of nations. She became the promoter of art and science. She led the millions wandering in the darkness of ignorance into the light of the noonday sun. She erected great cathedrals and churches and universities, to which she brought the people, whom she taught the arts of civilization and the knowledge of God. She was the one tree spreading its majestic branches, and under its every clime and every people came to find peace, rest and food for the mind and heart and soul.

Thus it was when the so-called Reformation came, and Protestantism lifted its head, after thirteen hundred years of struggle and effort on the part of the church to bring the people to the knowledge of God and the freedom of the human mind, civilization and education which they enjoyed. Then, as the great historian Macaulay says, speaking of the dawn of Protestantism, "Knowledge, like an ungrateful stepdaughter, turned around and accused her mother of depriving her of bread."

We will not recall here all the evils that so-called Reformation wrought; how its fruits today are shown in the loss of faith in God by countless millions whom it led into herey, then into atheism and agnosticism. Today we recall the glorious fact of the freedom of the church. Today we turn the pages of history and recall all that the church has done for the world. Today we see that church triumphant, and in the great festivities which now begin in the ancient city of the Caesars, where St. Peter and his successors fixed the seat of government of the church, the present illustrious successor of that long unbroken chain of Pontiffs has opened the memorable commemoration in the proclamation of a jubilee which will extend to the entire world.

GIVE AT ONCE.

The suffering and loss following the floods that have prevailed throughout the country are the worst ever recorded and are almost impossible of description. Fortunately the raging waters have come to a stand and further damage escaped. Those who have been so fortunate as to be out of the devastated territory should be prompt and generous in their response to the appeals for aid for the sufferers, many of whom have lost the fruits of their life's work. No matter how much or how little, give something for the relief of the unfortunate, and remember that he who gives promptly gives doubly.

HOME RULE SURE.

The new session of the British Parliament, two weeks old, promises to be short, though for Ireland a very important one. The royal speech contained an intimation that the home rule bill will be reintroduced and also a measure to facilitate the progress and secure the completion of land purchase in Ireland. With regard to the home rule bill, it is interesting to note that the leader of the Unionist party admitted that it was "more than probable" the Government would keep their majority together in order to carry their bill a second time in the House of Commons. This is, as everybody knows, decidedly "more than probable." The average Government majority in the House of Commons in favor of the home rule bill during the protracted debates of last session was 116. The position today is unaltered. The majority stands as it did then and the fate of the home rule bill is in no position of uncertainty. The only question that remains to be answered is whether the House of Lords will respect the will of the people or whether it will expose its own impotence by rejecting the bill a second time, thus exhausting such power as remains to it. Under the Parliament act, should the lords reject the bill this session they will have nothing more to say to it. In the next session of Parliament it will receive the royal assent immediately on being passed a third time by the House of Commons. And then Ireland will have freedom and its own Parliament meeting in Dublin.

UNDULY AGITATED.

Rev. Father Gannon, in the Omaha True Voice, is in line with the Kentucky Irish American. Some of our Catholic contemporaries, he says, seem to be much disturbed over the fact that no Catholic has a place in President Wilson's Cabinet. This fact, we confess, does not give us any concern at all; and we see no reason for attaching any particular significance to it. To appoint a man to a Cabinet position solely because he was a Catholic would be indefensible, and to pass him by solely for the same reason would be equally indefensible. We have no right to assume that the President would be guilty of either act. Common decency should forbid us to attribute unworthy motives to the Chief Magistrate of the country when other explanations easily suggest themselves. Mr. Taft, we believe, had no Catholic in his Cabinet; but no one, for this reason, thought of hinting that he was a bigot. The Catholic church is too old, too great and too dignified a body to care much because some Catholic politician does not obtain the political recognition that he thinks is his due. For our part, we have never known a Catholic who became a better Christian through his having filled a political office; while it is much to be feared that a political career and sanctity of life do not go hand in hand.

"But it is our due," some one will say. Nonsense. Let us safeguard our self-respect, and the office will seek the man; and if it does not, the man can well do without it. Querulous newspapers hold no brief for the great Catholic church of America, and they are not authorized to speak for it. They allow themselves to be unduly impressed by the ranting of a few anti-Catholic bigots—without influence and without repute—who claim to control the President, the Cabinet and the whole country, just as Three Tailors of Toolsey street claimed to represent the whole people of England. There is no better way of encouraging these persons and playing into their hands than by noticing them, "arguing" with them and complaining that through their machinations

"there is no" Catholic in the Cabinet."

MONEY MADE MORALS.

The Catholic Register expresses the truth when it declares that the low wage girl is the good girl more often than not. The "minimum wage" law will help her if she has character, and if not it will give her a start in dress competition with her erring sister. But the good need the minimum wage law and should have it. Money will not preserve virtue, but it will buy bread. "Virtue is its own reward" in this life, and there is no buying it with a price. By the way, when man takes the place of the girl at the higher wage and drives the ladies "home," will it be to a home provided with an old fashioned kitchen or just one of those kitchens that "pull out" from the wall and connect with the gas jet?

OATHS ARE ALIKE.

Talking about the Jesuit oath and the Knights of Columbus oath, why don't the manufacturers of such articles catch on to the oath which janitors of Catholic churches are obliged to take when they are entrusted with guns and ammunition, which they care for under the churches, along with the coal? It is more horrible than any we have yet discovered and is just as truthful as the other oaths with which we are fortified. This pointer is given to the Guardians and their kind by the Catholic Advance.

Anti-Catholic agitation is excellent. It makes of good Catholics better ones, it makes of bad Catholics good ones, it causes thinking people to examine, and brings converts by the hundred. That's the consolation the Guardians of Liberty and their kind receive from the Catholic Union and Times.

The Democracy of Louisville and Jefferson county is to be congratulated upon the selection of Col. Frank McGrath as Chairman. His past record stamps him as a wise and safe leader and gives assurance of another great victory next November.

William D. Haywood, the strike agitator and a leader among the Industrial Workers, has been sentenced to six months at hard labor for the part he took in the gathering of mill strikers at Paterson, N. J.

Judged by the results in the municipal elections in Chicago and St. Louis, the Progressives are a political nonentity. As we predicted, they made a sorry showing, running almost even with the Socialists.

The split in the Episcopal church is widening. Fifty New York rectors this week sent a letter to Bishop Tuttle protesting against any change in that church's name.

Depend upon it—a Catholic family brought up to read year after year a good Catholic weekly will get a thousandfold the value of the subscription paid.

REJOICING.

Little Raymond Tobias Hauck arrived safely this week at the Hauck home, 636 Fehr avenue, since which the proud father, Tobe Hauck, and relatives have done nothing but rejoice. A pioneer among the Hibernians of Louisville and always interested in the city's material advancement, his speedy recovery is sincerely hoped for.

MOURN HIS DEATH.

Since the first of the year he had been in ill health and confined to his home, 1711 High street. James Doran was a devoted Catholic, a loyal Hibernian, and for his bereaved wife and children there is expressed the deepest sympathy. His funeral was held Monday morning from St. Patrick's church, attended by a vast concourse of sorrowing friends and relatives.

The notorious W. J. Delaney, who for the past twenty years, under the name of Rev. Delaney, has been preaching against the Roman Catholic faith and assailing the nuns and priests of the country, on March 22 died, penniless and alone, at Bokoshe, a small mining town near Muskogee, Okla., of spinal meningitis. Delaney claimed to be an ex-priest. Fifteen years ago he was a sensation in the larger cities, where the Catholics made up a large per cent. of the population. Like all of his kind he met death poor in money and friends. vent of the Good Shepherd.On Monday morning, March 31, a high mass was sung at the Convent of the Good Shepherd, Eighth and Madison streets, by the Rev. Engle-bert Schmitt, the chaplain, for the benefactors of the convent, both living and dead. Ever mindful of those who have aided them in their work the Sisters of the Good Shepherd make it a custom every year to have a mass said for those who have befriended them. At the convenience of the Right Rev. Bishop O'Donaghue at an early date two of the Sisters in the convent of the Good Shepherd will take perpetual vows.
After a novice has worked for six years in the order and she feels that this is her vocation she is required to take perpetual vows, and this will be the case with the two young women who will soon take the vows.
This obligation is a very solemn ceremony. Those who take it promise to devote their lives to work in the order.TIGERS VS. COLONELS.Hughie Jennings and his Detroit American League team will play the Colonels this afternoon and tomorrow, and as the hustling manager is an old Louisville favorite a mid-season crowd is expected to be on hand. Owrie Bush, Sam Crawford, Del Gainer, George Moriarty and others of the old guard of the Tigers will be seen in the line-up and possibly Ty Cobb, who is expected to join the team at any minute. The daily improvement in the Colonels' playing is especially gratifying to the fans, and in comparison with the other Association teams it begins to look like if we will have a first division team this year. The popular choice for an opening game lineup would be Clemens, c.; Powell or Smith, p.; Weinberg, 1b.; Hulswit,
2b.; Beumiller, s.; Niehoff, 3b.;
Burch, r. f.; Osborne, c. f., and Stansbury, l. f.CATHOLIC KNIGHTS.Next Friday night the regular HIBERNIANS.

What They Have Been Doing the Past Week—General News Notes.

There will but one division meeting next week.

Our next big affair will be the County Board annual mid-summer reunion and outing.

There are forty-one divisions in the County Monaghan, Ireland, with a membership of 6,800.

The Hibernians have been prompt in aiding the sufferers in the tornado and flood stricken States.

Division 1 is facing a crisis, and therefore every one of its members should attend the meeting on April 15.

Division 1 of Omaha appropriated $500 and appointed a committee to look after the wants and needs of tornado sufferers.

A New York exchange says that "patronizing the ouche of Division 36 is like making love to a widow—you can't overdo it."

By the death of James Doran the order sustains the loss of a faithful member and Division 1 one of its most earnest workers.

The annual ball of Division 15 and the Ladies' Auxiliary of Yorkers, N. Y., had a record attendance, over 3,000 being present.

Division 29, of Wilkesbarre, one of the oldest in Pennsylvania, for the past fifty-one years has celebrated St. Patrick's day with a social session.

Division 3 meets Monday night, the only one next week. All the members are urged to be present, as some interesting reports will be submitted.

The Ancient Order was the first to send out an appeal to its members for aid for the sufferers from the disastrous floods that have swept the country.

Our Ladies' Auxiliary was prompt in responding to the appeal of their National President for funds with which to relieve the sufferers in the flood stricken districts.

The newly organized division at Lincoln, Neb., had as guests at its first entertainment Right Rev. Bishop Thien and Fathers Bradley, McShane, O'Laughlin and Moran.

Ladies' Auxiliary 1 of Indianapolis, with the largest membership in Indiana, is arranging for a great home-coming and celebration of the sixteenth anniversary of its organization.

The entertainment that was to have been given last week by the divisions of Columbus, Ohio, has been postponed and will be given later for the benefit of the flood sufferers.

At the meetings this week echoes from the St. Patrick's day entertainment were heard, accompanied by praises for the members of the committee that arranged this excellent programme.

Members of Division 2 are preparing a big time for those who attend the euche and dance to be given at their hall on Thursday evening, April 24. They promise valuable prizes and good music.

The men who do most for the Ancient Order are those who attend the meetings. Every member should devote at least one night in the month to his division. This would insure a large gathering and greatly encourage the officers.

The spiritual retreat conducted by the Hibernians of St. Paul in the Cathedral there was directed by Father Fanning, the Dominican missionary, who was assisted by Bishop Lawler and other pastors. Over 1,500 members received holy communion at the closing mass.

MACKIN COUNCIL.

The meeting of Mackin Council brought out only a small attendance Monday night, many members remaining at their homes because of the dangers threatened from the high waters of the Ohio river. After receiving two applications, allowing

What the Club Plan Is-- What It Means to You:

The Club Plan is an extended payment plan instituted purely and simply for the convenience of our patrons who wish to buy Household Goods, such as Furniture Carpets, Rugs, etc.

When you join the Club Plan you are asked to pay 3 per cent. of the amount of your purchases for joining; for instance

The membership fee on a $25.00 purchase would be 75c.

The membership fee on a $50.00 purchase would be $1.50.

The membership fee on greater purchases would of course be in proportion.

You are then asked to pay 10 per cent. of your total purchase as the first payment. For instance, on a $25.00 purchase you pay $2.50 down in addition to the membership fee, making a total of $3.25. The goods are then delivered to you and you arrange to pay the balance in small weekly or monthly payments.

When you consider that goods bought on the Club Plan are purchased at our cash prices—whether special or regular—you will more clearly see that our membership fee is nothing in comparison with the additional cost installment houses place on their goods for the privilege of time payments.

FURNITURE, CARPETS, RUGS, HOUSE FURNISHINGS AND OTHER HOUSEHOLD GOODS ARE SOLD ON THE CLUB PLAN.

Any further information regarding the Club Plan will be cheerfully given by our salespeople or at the Credit office on the fifth floor.
